GRAND OPENING OF THE NEW AND ELEGANT
Canova
Photographic and Portrait
STUDIOS.
SUCCESSORS TO H. ROCHER,
Who permanently retires from business.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
The well-known Rocher Photographic Gallery has been purchased by the CANOVA PHOTOGRAPHIC & PORTRAIT CO., who has, at great expense, entirely refitted throughout, making it one of the finest Photographic Studios in the world, and will be ready to receive patrons and visitors tomorrow morning, at which time every courtesy will be extended to all who desire to inspect this superb establishment. The rich and extensive improvements are intended by the management to assist them to cater to a fine trade in HIGH-CLASS ART PHOTOGRAPHY, CRAYON and PASTEL WORK.
The Ladies and Gentlemen of Chicago who desire strictly the finest effects in lighting, posing, and finish will find the CANOVA STUDIOS to entirely fill all the requirements of this class of work.
Carefully-studied PORTRAITS of CHILDREN will also be a prominent feature of this Gallery; and ladies can feel sure of receiving all the care and attention that is required for the finest of such work.
Prices will be in keeping with the highest class of work.

HARTLEY
Still Dictator of Prices!

Some Brands of photographers do not like to acknowledge Hartley dictator of prices, and, to cover up the fact that they are compelled to follow me or not make any pictures, they make what "they call GIFTS," such as 15-cent frames, 4 extra Panels, etc., etc.

I DO NOT GIVE ANYTHING AWAY,
BUT,
REMEMBER!
PAYS FOR
12 Cabinets and 1 Panel
PAYS FOR
12 Cabinets & 6 Panels,
Any Style to Suit You.

This has been my price for years. So, you see, you high-priced roosters will have to "give away" 2 more Panels to compete with my "SELLING PRICE."

REMEMBER!
Any Style to Suit You.
Resitting Free if first does not suit.
I do not advertise $2 and ask $5.

I Guarantee My Pictures to Be as Good as the Best at Any Price.

SEAWORDS OF THE SOUTH.

Some Preliminaries Facts as to the Nature and Utility of the Peanut Research.

Savannah Report, Ga., June 25.—The original turkey buzzard is not a beauty, but a curious, by tossing upon the inclination the buzzard who could improve its reputation for smoothness. It is against the law to shoot gooney birds. Gone to shoot a turkey buzzard. There are two excellent reasons for this prohibition. The buzzards are the scavengers of the South, and there is no telling what sort of a gentleman a dead turkey buzzard would bring on if anybody should kill one.

The turkey buzzard is a roosting bird. He leaves, he is not good to be eaten—though the roosting fowl does not resist that he experiences—and he is not any of man's friend. He never sees the quarrel about to the business sting, waiting for business to come, and when the event of procurement has terminated the buzzard descends and feasts upon the gore and such that were left lying by the butchers and the subsequent victims. The buzzard is ugly, raises pets, and has declared to the Southern House of something for which the buzzard should have credit. In Charleston there is a rat which swarms for the sewer, and the buzzards often clean up that foul nest town. The visitors of the turkey buzzard is dusky and up one of the regulars for getting rid of rats, since it belongs to the buzzards' family. So good is the service of every class, the scolding forms of opprobrium and the name of the turkey buzzard are found by the tenants. It is averred that the flocks of these birds will agree for days and nights over a town or spot that is not to their taste. A Charlestonian was driven out of Southern Georgia not since so many one who by the time that the mosquito nets beginning to take up one by one, just because the flock of a mayor to Paris disappeared in the middle after having roosted on the premises, and not one was to be seen. Then the people of the town, after a day of consulting to the reasons against the presence and notes in the shape of their bones and said they must have been there. Then the buzzards would live too, and then they would find the buzzards.

The latest buzzard, despite the favorable look, is a baneful one. Not only have the same settled a contract to kill 5 to 10 rats, but the latter are not edible. Indeed, it is a question if the rats are not edible. Indeed, it is a question if the rats are not edible. Indeed, it is a question if the rats are not edible. Indeed, it is a question if the rats are not edible.

THE TRIBUNE'S LAW-BREAKING STRIKE.

The united outbreak of the striking switchmen on the Lake Shore road yesterday shows the imperative need for taking all necessary steps to put the rioters down and keep them down. The question is not in regard to the strike or the switchmen's alleged grievances, but whether the tracks, cars, and engines of the Lake Shore road or any point shall be turned over to the control of a mob. The strikers and some of their sympathizers yesterday seized two engines, and after setting a mob aboard gave permit to a train occupied by detectives and Town of Lake police, and after a short struggle drove the officers away and took possession of the property, several cars being wrecked by plate-glass during the encounter. As the latter case was disclosed after some seventy of the strikers had been arrested by Judge [illegible], the authorities are forced at once to use the force needed to compel obedience to the law and respect for the orders of the court. The Town of Lake police, unlike the Chicago officers, do not seem equal to the duty. As the trouble is confined to the Town of Lake, the Chicago police cannot be used to subdue the rioters, but in the event of any further serious outbreaks the responsibility will rest on the Sheriff. It is his duty, whether called upon by the Town of Lake officials or not, to see that order is preserved and that the writs of the court run.

As had the strike of the Lake Shore switchmen is not one calculated to arouse much public sympathy. They demand that eight men whose services are satisfactory to the company shall be discharged. As attempt to deprive industrious, law-abiding men of their means of livelihood could hardly be regarded with favor at any time, and certainly not when it is waged by unfeeling rich citizens, among the property of employers, discharging tools, and threatening public order. The riotous conduct of the strikers yesterday calls for prompt and energetic action by the authorities, and the sooner it is taken the better for all concerned.

KEEP TO THE MAIN ISSUE.

There is no use in attempting to secure the repeal of the Scott Ohio ballot ordinance. It has been approved by the Mayor and enacted on behalf of the street-car company. The parties to whom the franchise was granted allege that they have already made contracts for additional machinery on the strength of the passage and approval of the ordinance. Should the Council now attempt to undo its work of three weeks ago it would be taken as an interference with the vested rights of the company and the city might be mulct in damages. The weight of legal opinion is to the effect that a repealing ordinance at this time would be illegal and worthless. Ald. Sexton's repentant proposal to introduce such an ordinance Monday night, if acted upon, would result in more harm than good.

What has been done in this matter cannot be undone. Efforts at and discussion should now only surface the principal issue, which is, Shall the North Side Company be given the La Salle street tunnel, and if yes, at what price? It is probable that a majority of the Aldermen will vote to give the tunnel to the street-car company, and as Mayor Harrison has declared himself in favor of this course the action of the majority will be approved. But what price shall the street-car company be compelled to pay? Two Tribune-men have maintained all along that if the tunnel is given up to the North Side Company the smallest compensation should be its original cost or a rental equivalent to a fair interest thereon. The minority report recommends a rental of $10,000 per annum. Not a cent less should be accepted. The street-car company will gladly accept the tunnel at that price. To give it for less will be a grave injustice to the taxpayers.

REWARDING A TRAITOROUS OFFICER.

The passage of the Sir John Paton bill in the Senate Friday disposes finally, though not justly, of that pertinacious republican. We assume the President will approve the bill as a matter of course. Paton's conduct, after so many years of unflagging zeal, was accused by a strict party vote of the Democrats in the Senate, aided by six Republicans—Messrs. Cameron, Dan, Jones (Nev.), Stanford (Cal.), Hoar, and Sewell, the last a Gen. Grant friend. Gen. Logan again cast all the astute mule by the ultra votes of the bill, as he did, in vain, two years ago, when President Arthur vetoed the bill on the ground that it virtually instructed him to nominate a certain person for a certain office, and thus was an invasion of his constitutional prerogative. The first Settlement bill, which he afterwards approved, was not subject to the same objection, as it only authorized the President "to appoint one Lieutenant on the retired list of the army."

The object for the reimbursement of Paton was always confessed on the continuing plea. No new evidence of any value was ever adduced to warrant a reversal of the court-martial which found the guilty of the gross betrayal of Mr. Lincoln dismissing him the service. Allegations of disloyalty to the Government and personal enmities from his opponents from time to time in the various attempts of his friends to whitewash his sullied faith have denials and monstrous pathos, replies and counter-charges obscuring the real question, which was, "Has he or has he not been guilty of treason, misprision—of disobedience of orders in the face of the enemy?" The evidence, never controverted, and the admissions of his friends showed beyond the shadow of a doubt that he had deliberately disobeyed the command to move to Gen. Pope's support during the battle which was raging within his hearing. His constituency swore that the hour was late too drowsy to have been so nearly sure. Moreover, he claim that Longstreet's army would have demolished him and he fallen in with that shot instead of his 10,000 men was exploded by the evidence, which showed that all of Longstreet's command, except 5,000 men, was engaged in the action against Pope. On but an discussion during the battle upon no other to search. His incontinence was an established fact, and but to have strictly punished by the court-martial he would have been shot, as Senator Frank suggested he some very one being. To censure him now, not by reason of any doubts to the minds of his judges on the main question, but because they were tardy, are recognized in the disobedient officer one of the last rendered distinguished service to the Nation. We not established his claim to courage and ability as he yet have competently little of counting them.

Yesterday was a great day in the history of the Chicago bar. Nothing was wanting to make it thoroughly agreeable to the records at Washington. Part should have been. But the number of persons discovering enough to fill their money on Silver Creek was small; hence the public sentiment against the postponers and backwoodsmen may be decidedly stronger in Chicago this morning than it was twenty-four hours ago.

What has been done in this matter cannot be undone. Efforts at and discussion should now only surface the principal issue, which is, Shall the North Side Company be given the La Salle street tunnel, and if yes, at what price? It is probable that a majority of the Aldermen will vote to give the tunnel to the street-car company, and as Mayor Harrison has declared himself in favor of this course the action of the majority will be approved. But what price shall the street-car company be compelled to pay? Two Tribune-men have maintained all along that if the tunnel is given up to the North Side Company the smallest compensation should be its original cost or a rental equivalent to a fair interest thereon. The minority report recommends a rental of $10,000 per annum. Not a cent less should be accepted. The street-car company will gladly accept the tunnel at that price. To give it for less will be a grave injustice to the taxpayers.

REWARDING A TRAITOROUS OFFICER.

The passage of the Sir John Paton bill in the Senate Friday disposes finally, though not justly, of that pertinacious republican. We assume the President will approve the bill as a matter of course. Paton's conduct, after so many years of unflagging zeal, was accused by a strict party vote of the Democrats in the Senate, aided by six Republicans—Messrs. Cameron, Dan, Jones (Nev.), Stanford (Cal.), Hoar, and Sewell, the last a Gen. Grant friend. Gen. Logan again cast all the astute mule by the ultra votes of the bill, as he did, in vain, two years ago, when President Arthur vetoed the bill on the ground that it virtually instructed him to nominate a certain person for a certain office, and thus was an invasion of his constitutional prerogative. The first Settlement bill, which he afterwards approved, was not subject to the same objection, as it only authorized the President "to appoint one Lieutenant on the retired list of the army."

The object for the reimbursement of Paton was always confessed on the continuing plea. No new evidence of any value was ever adduced to warrant a reversal of the court-martial which found the guilty of the gross betrayal of Mr. Lincoln dismissing him the service. Allegations of disloyalty to the Government and personal enmities from his opponents from time to time in the various attempts of his friends to whitewash his sullied faith have denials and monstrous pathos, replies and counter-charges obscuring the real question, which was, "Has he or has he not been guilty of treason, misprision—of disobedience of orders in the face of the enemy?" The evidence, never controverted, and the admissions of his friends showed beyond the shadow of a doubt that he had deliberately disobeyed the command to move to Gen. Pope's support during the battle which was raging within his hearing. His constituency swore that the hour was late too drowsy to have been so nearly sure. Moreover, he claim that Longstreet's army would have demolished him and he fallen in with that shot instead of his 10,000 men was exploded by the evidence, which showed that all of Longstreet's command, except 5,000 men, was engaged in the action against Pope. On but an discussion during the battle upon no other to search. His incontinence was an established fact, and but to have strictly punished by the court-martial he would have been shot, as Senator Frank suggested he some very one being. To censure him now, not by reason of any doubts to the minds of his judges on the main question, but because they were tardy, are recognized in the disobedient officer one of the last rendered distinguished service to the Nation. We not established his claim to courage and ability as

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

FINAL SETTLEMENTS OF RATE-MAKERS PENDING FROM CHICAGO.

An Immense Grain Movement—Chicago Losing Its Prestige as a Through Shipping Point to the East Because of Discrimination—The Great Trunk-Lines and Western Freight War—A Reduction to Rates of About 50 Per Cent—The Probability That It Will Spread.

The total shipments of east-bound freight from Chicago (not including live stock), both through and local, by the seven great trunk lines during the last week amounted to 60,000 tons, against 70,000 for the week previous, or a decrease of 1,700 tons. Adding to the above about 6,000 tons carried by the non-rail lines, the total east-bound load freight shipments of all classes amounted to only a little over 65,000 tons. In the latter proportion of the above tonnage went to local points, it can readily be seen how small amount shipments from this city to rail both between Chicago's rapidly declining prestige as a through shipping point to the East, and due to the discrimination against Chicago on the part of the Eastern trunk lines. The roads controlling east from Chicago are connected by the Eastern trunk lines to allow equally to tariff rates, with the roads running east from Buffalo prior assistance of Chicago are practically to not exist, and consequently much of the business which would ordinarily originate at Chicago must go via Chicago gross classification points. The discrimination of elevation and switching charges from this city being spread upon 400 tons and little other than the minimum load a freighting haul to the shipping interests at this point. Some action will probably be taken by the meeting of General Managers at Cinnamon Springs, Fla., July 15, to stop the outrage of cross-line points from and southward of Chicago. But this alone will not remedy the evil. Shippers and producers cannot afford, with the present low prices of products and provisions, to pay the prevailing high freight rates. The railroads have no right to charge the usual freight rates with the cheapest rates they have given to other cities or talk of their rates as at present. Nothing, however, short of a general reduction of rates will relieve the present stagnation, and the sooner it comes the better it will be for all concerned. The Illinois Railroad and Warehouse Commission has taken no action to secure a reduction of rates, and the non-discrimination have been in the service.

A General Western and Northwestern Freight War.

The intimation was that the war on freight rates between Chicago and Omaha, except in the current reduction according to a reduction in case of wheat in car used on the current classes, will readily accrue to all points West and Northwest. No further cut in Omaha rates has been received, but it is the general opinion that there will be a further break within a day or two, and that Colorado and Utah rates will also receive attention in the same direction. The St. Louis roads have followed the lead of their connections at Chicago, and have not only made a large reduction in the rates from that point to Omaha, but have also made a cut in Omaha and Kansas City rates. The Chicago & Alton has followed the lead of the Missouri Pacific, and has made a reduction in rates from Kansas City to the Missouri River points. The Atchison roads have also made a reduction in rates from Kansas City to Omaha, and Nebraska points

BONFIELD AND THE RIOT.

THE ALLEGED CONFESSION CAST IN THE HAYMARKET TROUBLE.

A False Official Claims that There Was a Regular Go-Between—Chief Shaack, Inspector Bonfield—Chief Shaack, However, Denies that a Certain Conversation Took Place Which Formed the Groundwork for the Charges.

"There was a traveler on the part of the anti-anarchists to watch the spies, the agents of the terrorist leaders, or the fearful disaster would not have occurred," said a well-known police official to a TRIBUNE reporter. "Another note the traveler, and a most responsible one to attend to, was to shadow Spies. I suppose you haven't heard of the peculiar way in which the attack of the police happened to be made. The disposing of the street was a concession to the Socialists, as it will be seen, and it was not a surprise to them, as many suppose. Even some persons who were present Tuesday, in fact, a number of Socialists, have been led to believe that the police were treacherously attacked by Bonfield, in fact, it was generally understood by the Socialists that they were to have the meeting unmolested. It was not intended by Bonfield to disturb the peace of the assemblage, and he had no reason to suppose that the Socialists intended to create any disturbance. The only witness calling for interference was that of Deputy Sheriff Matson, who informed the Chief by what appeared to be a messenger. How could Bonfield suppose that Matson was not to be relied upon? Matson and Bonfield were friends. Matson was present when Bonfield ordered the police to disperse the meeting. Matson was present when Bonfield ordered the police to disperse the meeting. Matson was present when Bonfield ordered the police to disperse the meeting

THE AMERICAN DERBY.

SILVER CLOUD WINS THE TEN-THOUSAND-DOLLAR EVENT.

A Great Event at the Opening Day of the Monmouth Racing—Five Interesting Races—Mike Sells, Sparling, Silver Cloud, Vanguisher, and Ten Accept the Winners—Fashionable Equipages and Early-Season Thousands—Scenes In and About the Grand Stand and Club-House.

The great opening day of the Washington Park Club-race has come and gone, and still long be remembered as a day without a fault. A glorious weather, to summon attendance, a splendid racing card to all that are to make up a successful racing day the opening was all that could be asked. No attendant was the good luck that a morning rain rather made for the more idle a track through at least a thousand carriages without having a seat to be had according to Hoyle, and a disappointment for a social affair having transit to be judged in the least. Notwithstanding the fact that the Presbyterian protest sets and the arrangement of threatening clouds in the eastern horizon during the morning, it could be clearly seen at once that society leaders, perhaps the fair regulars of a somewhat day, was on the program. The day was cloudless, and the air, though bright, was not too warm for comfort, while at the track a delightful refreshing breeze kept the great crowd cool. It could be seen early in the afternoon that the crowd was to run way up into the thousands. Elements of interest on every private race-goer having to the grounds were noting their way towards the centre of attraction as early as 1 o'clock.

At 1:30 the stream of carriages on Cottage Grove and Drexel boulevards and the South Park drive-ways was at once and regular as to a procession. By 2 o'clock there was a solid line of vehicles three and four abreast, extending for at least two blocks from the public entrance, while that at the exit entrance was not less because of the greater facilities for entrance and speeding of accounts, after the race was over several thousand carriages—many placed the number at not less than 5,000—could be seen rolling the course and filing at available ends. There was many fashionable variety, from the four-in-hand coachman's trap and four to the cabriolet here and the Victoria-hitch and the occupants were in as many conveyances.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the racing began in the first race there could be no doubt. The thousands at the grand entrance on to the open air and the gaze of the numerous model that crowd on the grand ordinary and the rear-top, sliding pavilion seats. For the first three quarters of an hour the entries, throng grew to enormous proportions, and by the time the first race was called the grand stand and the lawn were filled with fashion, beauty, and the crowds. Between one hour from the regular hours into a crowd, for by about one o'clock the grand stand and the lawn in front of it were filled to their utmost capacity, and the crowd was still coming in. Many of the late comers had to be content with standing room in the rear of the grand stand, and the lawn in front of it was filled with a dense throng. The number of people present was variously estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000, but the former figure is probably nearer the truth.

The first race, a dash of a mile, with maiden allowances, had fifteen entries, and all faced the flag. They were Sam, Elsie, Porter Jobb, Guiltless, Girl Jane, Beverages, Jim Conrad, Sampo, Sol, Gallery, Tokyo, and Star Lady. Speculation had a very high estimate of Gallery's chances with Murphy in the saddle, and she was a strong favorite. The absence of Jim Douglas was a rude disappointment with the Judges, however, and while there was a strong expression of confidence in the gallery to win if not coming, there was an great amount of money offered on her, and he was a well-known choice, with Star Lady selling for short odds favorite. On the call Sam was removed the next two quiet counted to Rodney. Then Gallery, 100 (Murphy, 2); Star Lady, 100, Sol, 100, Girl Jane, Beverages, 100 (Hamilton, 3); Porter Jobb, 100, Sampo, 100, Guiltless, 100, Elsie, 100, Tokyo, 100, Jim Conrad, 100. Gallery, 4 to 5; Star Lady, 4 to 1; Beverages, 6 to 1; Girl Jane, 8 to 1; Porter Jobb, 10 to 1; Sol, 15 to 1; Sampo, 15 to 1; Guiltless, 15 to 1; Elsie, 15 to 1; Tokyo, 15 to 1; Jim Conrad, 15 to 1. Gallery and Star Lady were the favorites in the betting, the former selling at 4 to 5 and the latter at 4 to 1. Beverages and Girl Jane were next in demand at 6 to 1 and 8 to 1, respectively, while the others were neglected. Gallery had the call in the betting, and was the favorite at the post. Guiltless got away with a clear lead of a length, Sampo being second, Beverages third, Porter Jobb and Sol next, Star Lady, and the rest following in the order named. Guiltless maintained her position to the quarter pole, when Sampo and Beverages took the lead, and they ran together to the three-eighths pole, where Sampo gave way, Beverages leading by a length, Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Star Lady, Gallery, and Jim Conrad following, bunched, in the order named. Then Jim Conrad fell back, and Gallery moved up to the front, and Beverages, Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Star Lady, Gallery, and Sampo followed, bunched, in the order named. Then Gallery and Beverages ran together to the quarter pole, where Gallery gave way, Beverages leading by a length, Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Star Lady, Gallery, and Sampo following, bunched, in the order named. Then Beverages ran through the home stretch, Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Star Lady, Gallery, and Sampo following, bunched, in the order named, and Beverages won by a length, Guiltless second, Porter Jobb third, Star Lady fourth, Gallery fifth, and Sampo sixth. Time, 1:47½.

FIRST TWO EVENTS.

The First Race.

The first race, a dash of a mile, with maiden allowances, had fifteen entries, and all faced the flag. They were Sam, Elsie, Porter Jobb, Guiltless, Girl Jane, Beverages, Jim Conrad, Sampo, Sol, Gallery, Tokyo, and Star Lady. Speculation had a very high estimate of Gallery's chances with Murphy in the saddle, and she was a strong favorite. The absence of Jim Douglas was a rude disappointment with the Judges, however, and while there was a strong expression of confidence in the gallery to win if not coming, there was an great amount of money offered on her, and he was a well-known choice, with Star Lady selling for short odds favorite. On the call Sam was removed the next two quiet counted to Rodney. Then Gallery, 100 (Murphy, 2); Star Lady, 100, Sol, 100, Girl Jane, Beverages, 100 (Hamilton, 3); Porter Jobb, 100, Sampo, 100, Guiltless, 100, Elsie, 100, Tokyo, 100, Jim Conrad, 100. Gallery, 4 to 5; Star Lady, 4 to 1; Beverages, 6 to 1; Girl Jane, 8 to 1; Porter Jobb, 10 to 1; Sol, 15 to 1; Sampo, 15 to 1; Guiltless, 15 to 1; Elsie, 15 to 1; Tokyo, 15 to 1; Jim Conrad, 15 to 1. Gallery and Star Lady were the favorites in the betting, the former selling at 4 to 5 and the latter at 4 to 1. Beverages and Girl Jane were next in demand at 6 to 1 and 8 to 1, respectively, while the others were neglected. Gallery had the call in the betting, and was the favorite at the post. Guiltless got away with a clear lead of a length, Sampo being second, Beverages third, Porter Jobb and Sol next, Star Lady, and the rest following in the order named. Guiltless maintained her position to the quarter pole, when Sampo and Beverages took the lead, and they ran together to the three-eighths pole, where Sampo gave way, Beverages leading by a length, Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Star Lady, Gallery, and Sampo following, bunched, in the order named. Then Beverages ran through the home stretch, Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Star Lady, Gallery, and Sampo following, bunched, in the order named, and Beverages won by a length, Guiltless second, Porter Jobb third, Star Lady fourth, Gallery fifth, and Sampo sixth. Time, 1:47½.

The Second Race.

The second race was a dash of three-quarters of a mile, and winning pouring and sudden interesting. It brought out a full of applicants that were exceedingly troublesome at the post, forty minutes being consumed going to starting them. The starters were: Ferrol, Bobbing Pilgrim, Rose D. Lily Clement, Alfred, Wyandotte, Bob Pike, Big Fellow, Monarch, Shellbark, Dorcas Lee, Ballantine, Jerry Brady, Dandelion, Carroll, Silent, and Jack Dudley. In the point Billy Clement got the 3d. Pilgrim 2d, Ferrol 3d, and the others in hours for 4th. Bob Pike, Rose D. Lily, Billy Clement, 2d to 1 Rose D. and Dandelion, 4 to 1; Ferrol, Pilgrim, and Wyandotte, 6 to 1; Monarch, Alfred, and Ballantine, 8 to 1; Silent and Jack Dudley, 10 to 1; Dorcas Lee, 15 to 1; Bob Pike and Big Fellow, 20 to 1; Carroll and Jack Dudley, 40 to 1; Shellbark, 50 to 1. Rose D. and Dandelion were the favorites in the betting, the former selling at 2 to 1 and the latter at 4 to 1. Ferrol and Pilgrim were next in demand at 6 to 1 each, and Wyandotte, Alfred, and Ballantine were next in demand at 8 to 1 each. The others were neglected. Ferrol had the call in the betting, and was the favorite at the post, and Dandelion and Rose D. Lily were the next favorites. They got away with a good start, and Dandelion soon took the lead, with Ferrol second, Rose D. Lily third, Pilgrim fourth, Alfred fifth, Wyandotte sixth, Ballantine seventh, and the others following in the order named. Dandelion maintained her position to the quarter pole, when Ferrol and Rose D. Lily ran together to the three-eighths pole, where Ferrol had the lead, with Rose D. Lily second, Dandelion third, Pilgrim fourth, Alfred fifth, Wyandotte sixth, Ballantine seventh, and the others following in the order named. Ferrol maintained her position to the stretch, where Rose D. Lily made a run for the lead, and Ferrol responded with a rush to the last hundred yards.

Dandelion got away with a clear lead of a length, Pilgrim being second, Monarch third, Ferrol and Dorcas Lee fourth, and the rest following in the order named. Dandelion maintained her position to the three-quarter pole, where Monarch took second place and ran into the lead at the stretch, with Dandelion second, Pilgrim third, Ferrol fourth, Dorcas Lee fifth, Alfred sixth, Wyandotte seventh, Bob Pike eighth, Big Fellow ninth, Carroll tenth, Jack Dudley eleventh, and Shellbark twelfth. Then Monarch and Dandelion ran together to the home stretch, where Monarch maintained her position to the end, Dandelion second, Pilgrim third, Ferrol fourth, Dorcas Lee fifth, Alfred sixth, Wyandotte seventh, Bob Pike eighth, Big Fellow ninth, Carroll tenth, Jack Dudley eleventh, and Shellbark twelfth. Then they ran under the wire, Monarch first, Dandelion second, Pilgrim third, Ferrol fourth, Dorcas Lee fifth, Alfred sixth, Wyandotte seventh, Bob Pike eighth, Big Fellow ninth, Carroll tenth, Jack Dudley eleventh, and Shellbark twelfth. Time, 1:17½.

Dandelion

was run for a loan, with Shellbark backed at average odds, by the most famous bunch in the Monmouth Lake, and was caught in the first race. The odds were 10 to 1 against the field, 5 to 1 against Dandelion, 6 to 1 against Pilgrim, Ferrol, and Dorcas Lee, and 8 to 1 against Alfred, Wyandotte, Bob Pike, Big Fellow, Carroll, Jack Dudley, and Shellbark. Time, 1:17½. Pilgrim paid $14.60, Ferrol, $10.60, Dorcas Lee $5.60, Pilgrim, $10.60, Alfred, $10.60.

THE BALLOON DERBY.

Lucky Baldwin's Silver Cloud, Ridden by Murphy, Captures the Prize.

The Derby was a success and a disappointment. But one of the horses that were expected to make the contest a great one appeared anywhere in the field, and he did make more applause by a run that was thwarted by interference and almost ignored at the finish-wards, where hearings odds of from 20 to 1 to 1 were backed by every man who wanted cash himself at all events. The victory was secured by the California colt, a fifteen-to-one shot ridden by a Eastern jockey, but the Californians who wagered anything on the race backed other horses and lost their money.

The cold weather from any motive being those who backed Bonnie's mount and those who indirectly took short horses. There was no starter, and the start was a fierce affair. Bonnie was given a gallop to the post, and was off like a shot, with Silver Cloud and Sparling next in order. Then came Guiltless, Porter Jobb, Sampo, Girl Jane, Sol, Elsie, Tokyo, Jim Conrad, Beverages, Star Lady, and Gallery. Bonnie maintained her position to the quarter pole, where Silver Cloud and Sparling ran together to the three-eighths pole, where Silver Cloud had the lead, with Sparling second, Guiltless third, Porter Jobb fourth, Sampo fifth, Girl Jane sixth, Sol seventh, Elsie eighth, Tokyo ninth, Jim Conrad tenth, Beverages eleventh, Star Lady twelfth, and Gallery thirteenth. Then Silver Cloud and Sparling ran together to the home stretch, where Silver Cloud maintained her position to the end, Sparling second, Guiltless third, Porter Jobb fourth, Sampo fifth, Girl Jane sixth, Sol seventh, Elsie eighth, Tokyo ninth, Jim Conrad tenth, Beverages eleventh, Star Lady twelfth, and Gallery thirteenth. Some of the Sign.

A few of the rich seasons capital question for next autumn: Are not Mrs. A. T. Stewart, Mrs. Leland Stanford, Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Crocker, and Mrs. Huntington, of New York, Mrs. Mackay, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Potter Palmer, of this city, entitled to the front seats in the grand stand of the horse-racing fraternity? Certainly they are the ones who have the most money to bet, and they are the ones who have the most money to spend. Their equipages are the most elegant, their horses the most valuable, their liveries the most costly, their coachmen the most skilful, their footmen the most gorgeous. Their presence on the course is the sign that the race is to be a fashionable success. Their absence is the sign that the race is to be a failure. Their equipages, their horses, their liveries, their coachmen, their footmen are the attraction that draws the crowd. To the owners, to get there around and around them, and the lawns, of which there were many, the Derby, Belmont, having on her multitude of friends there lately, to get even by wearing good money after bad.

CARRIAGES AND PEOPLE.

Gorgeous Equipages of Every Style—Fashion Favors Among the Spectators.

The Silver Cloud carried away one of people. From before 1 o'clock there were more than 1,000 carriages on the course, and the various approaches, drive, track, and go on without meeting a queue to get on. From the moment the first race began the ability to count through a clothes-hedges, and the other requirements of the task and regard for the next race. One and drivers were called the sections in the race, between the carriages on the roadway, and they so on the track, the track, and the regular. Many of the more conservative carried 10 passengers in the rear, and the average number carried was 6, giving a total of 6,000. Quite one-quarter were ladies, so that no less than 1,500 of the fair sex were present. Many a fair complexion was ruined by the sun, and many a pair of eyes were made to water by the dust raised by the flying wheels, but these were the only drawbacks to the pleasure of the day.

The Derby was the occasion of the first appearance of the season of the Four-in-hands, and the display was a very fine one. Many of the coaches were handsomely appointed, and the horses were in splendid condition. Among the latter were some of the finest animals in the country, and the sight they presented as they were driven at a spanking pace of eight miles an hour was a very fine one. Among the coaches were those of Mr. Potter Palmer, Mr. Leland Stanford, Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Crocker, Mr. Huntington, Mr. Mackay, Mr. Fred Gebhard, Mr. Lawrence Drake, Mr. Ogden Mills, Mr. Hitchcock, Mr. Lorillard, Mr. Belmont, Mr. Hunter, Mr. Hoyt, Mr. Cassatt, Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Gerry, Mr. Jerome, Mr. Kernochan, Mr. Iselin, Mr. Oelrichs, Mr. Fish, Mr. Lydig, Mr. Rutherfurd

The most exciting episode in the Lake Shore strikers's strike was witnessed yesterday. It was a wild chase of a United Pullman engine, heavily freighted with infuriated strikers and a detachment of police, over eighty miles of the Lake Shore railroad, and the battle which was fought during the entire distance. The engine, which was manned by a driver and fireman, and carried a conductor and a brakeman, left the Grand Central depot at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and returned at 3:30 in the afternoon. The train consisted of the engine, a baggage car, and a coach. The engine was a Pullman, and was the property of the company. Aboard the coach were Sheriff Hoyne, Chief Deputy Sheriff Matt Danziger, Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hogan, Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hogan, Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hogan

DEMISE OF DAVID DAVIS.

A PEACEFUL DEATH AT HIS HOME EARLIEST MORNING.

Not the End of a Busy Life Cause—The Relatives and Friends Who Were Present—Arrangements for the Funeral at Bloomington—Congratulations for the Dead Jurist on Completed Life—The Distinguished Statesman Chosen—Sketch of Judge Davis' Career as a Jurist and in Congress.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Judge David Davis, after a severe attack of illness, died at 6:30 this morning. He had suffered from extreme hot weather, and about the 1st of May had also suffered from congestion of the kidneys. He became unconscious yesterday noon, and gradually sank, passing away so quietly that even he himself scarcely realized that he was gone. Mrs. Davis, who had been with him a week or more, had been quietly resting for a few hours, and was summoned immediately to his bedside. His death was painless and quiet, and he passed away as if going to sleep.

Hon. David Davis.

Judge Davis was born in Cecil County, Md., March 9, 1815. His father, David Davis, was a native of Wales, and his mother, Sarah Sparks, was a descendant of Quakers. His father was a graduate of Yale College, and was a man of considerable culture. He was a lawyer by profession, and practiced his profession in Cecil County, Md., and in Delaware. He was a Whig in politics, and was a member of the Maryland Legislature. He died in 1832, when David was seventeen years old. His mother died in 1825. David was the youngest of a family of seven children. He was educated at Kenyon College, Gambier, O., graduating in 1832. He then studied law in the office of Hon. Henry Gassaway Davis, of Virginia, and was admitted to the bar in 1835. He began the practice of his profession at Pekin, Tazewell County, Ill., in 1835, and remained there until 1862. He was married in 1844 to Miss Sarah Walker, daughter of Hon. Henry Walker, of Pekin. Mrs. Davis died in 1870. They had seven children, of whom only three survive—Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, Mrs. Lawrence Weldon, and David Davis, Jr. Mrs. Stevenson resides in Bloomington, Mrs. Weldon in Chicago, and David Davis, Jr., is a student at Princeton College.

In 1844 Mr. Davis was elected to the Illinois Legislature as a Whig, and was re-elected in 1846. He was a delegate to the Whig National Convention in 1848, which nominated Gen. Taylor for President. He was a Presidential elector in 1852, and was elected to the Illinois Legislature in 1853. He was a delegate to the Peace Convention in 1861, which was called by Virginia, and was appointed by Governor Yates one of the commissioners to visit Washington and confer with the President and Cabinet in regard to the secession movement. He was elected a delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1862, and was a member of the Committee on Judiciary. He was appointed by President Lincoln Judge of the United States Supreme Court for the Seventh Circuit in 1862, and resigned in 1877 to accept a seat in the United States Senate. THE BALLET IN ITALY.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY OF THE PANTOMIMIC DANCE.

Some Famous Ballet Writers, Masters, and Dancers—The First Ballet in Which a Ballet Girl Was Preferred—Something About the Ex-Italo Theaters in Milan—How the Amateurs Flat-Screw Is Conducted—The Business of the Corps de Ballet and How They Are Trained.

ITALY is the home of the modern ballet, although the principal forms of dancing originated in the Orient. In Italy dancing is in the blood; wealthy, aristocratic, and scholarly are characteristics of the people. Their appreciation of serious songs fails not to play its part in the ballet. Watch a couple of ladies dancing upon the street. Their feet are passengers with varying movements. Their remembrance of pattern is almost absolute to phlegmatic Anglo-Saxons. One stations on the sidewalk as an amusement and then or suddenly is gone; to note the air if it be two moving a scene in a tragedy. The other sings his discourse as it is his own, puts the air as if he were rehearsing an imaginary fog, and continues to execute by picking up his petticoats with his right forefinger. The result inspires from their actions that a two-fight might occur at any moment; but the fact is very reassuring that the weather is seemingly favorable for the rise of rent, and the current is startling the fact, though showing that it is either too cool for its construction. With the Italians "actions speak louder than words"—to give a new application to the adage. There are a million of pantomimists in Italy, therefore, that Italians should have given the greatest impetus to pantomimic art, although the ballet as a stage exhibition originated in France. The finished steps and it was very popular among the French, although the costumes and stage were very expensive to them, to favor at present. The former fault of the parts, the "scenic," to make way for female dancers, which was used to at before having classes in dancing schools, and the other the time of shepherds and shepherdesses employed in pieces of a pastoral order. The former does long skirts, and the prodigal expenses of contrast has not enabled them to the grace of the dancers or to the enjoyment of the spectators.

The Ballet as Classic Fashion Is Now.

In fact the ballet has made great progress in the last fifty years. But a society girl's ambition was aroused to break in a pantomime dancer on the ballet of Italy. And of the Franco-American was given at the Victoria Theater in the season of the Prince and Princess of Wales. Miss Kellogg, who has also retired to Italy, was to be invited into the ballet. Several Americans, and among others several young ladies, were to be seen in the ballet. Miss Kellogg, who has also retired to Italy, was to be invited into the ballet. Capriccio and Tagliani found numerous homes in the cities of Switzerland. In 1860 there were a great number who had been "Ballerinas," and among others several young ladies were to be seen in the ballet. "Excelsior" was certainly the first ballet in which a ballet girl was preferred throughout, and to which the most expensive costumes were lavished. It was performed for a part of the year to the Scala the action about some ex-gondolier who, the struggle between the two principles of light and darkness, and in general exhibited the full extent of the resources of modern stage machinery. The performance commences with the representation of the interior of a cavern, in which are discovered numerous demons and goblins, who, after a horrible incantation, disappear through the floor. The scene changes to a wild mountainous region, and the spectator is presented with a view of the sea, on which a vessel is tossed about by a violent storm. The vessel is at length dashed to pieces on the rocks, and the greater part of the crew perish. Those who escape are received by the inhabitants of the neighboring coast, and entertained with various dances. The next scene represents the interior of a splendid palace, in which a ball is given in honor of the marriage of the principal personages of the piece. The dancers are numerous, and the whole is conducted on a very grand scale. The ballet concludes with a representation of the infernal regions, in which the demons who appeared in the first scene are discovered surrounding the unfortunate victims of their machinations, and exulting in the success of their infernal designs. The whole of the scenery and decorations are entirely new, and the dresses and properties are extremely splendid and costly. The ballet was produced at a very great expense, and was performed for a considerable number of nights to crowded houses.

A CHICAGO MAN was in a platform at the right of the stage, for all the world as if he were an actual part of the performance. The platform commands the view of a whole, an elaborate interchange between the coming which is accompanied by a deafening crash. Then the chief musician steps out and announces that the next piece will be the "Grand Ballet of Excelsior," which is received with a round of applause. [illegible] SUMMER STORIES TOLD AT WATERING-PLACES.

THE exodus to Europe, to the Lake and the springs, to sea-side and mountains, has begun, and it will not be very long before we see ride down Michigan boulevard, summer hats a-dance, or under a dress-suits without an overcoating a-lingering. Here and there society, [illegible] and [illegible] that everybody is en negre to desert the city as soon as the sentry horns in every region of having adopted "Dunstable" for its motto. It is suggested in boniface Society who has conferred upon Chicago so many of the charms of the avenues summer resort, Paris, Chicago is a summer of our own year of entertainment. People to get to crowding the cities, occupying countless houses merely for the sake of a visit to Europe. Statistic, however, it seems to ascertain that there is not a night into homes from Lake Michigan to the Hudson as did ex-ante-bellum fashionists. Or was it because our seniors go to Europe this year, many of the "thousand natural charms" that we always sought to find so near at home? Or was it because the summer resorts of the shores of those lakes, due to cheaper and more luxurious [illegible] than ever before? Or was it because [illegible] to Europe, to [illegible] the other year, to [illegible] the [illegible] to [illegible] to [illegible] to

GLADSTONE'S BIG FIGHT.

IT IS DAILY GROWING BITTER AND MORE UNCERTAIN.

Dark Hits Appear Confident in Public but Fearful in Private—The Unionists Hearing Remarkable Strength—A Daily Stand Campaign—Unfair Charges Against the Premier and His Followers—Justin McCarthy's Letter—The Question Tuesday.

LONDON, June 26.—[To Baldwin Bennett Cable to The Tribune.]—The political excitement hotter every day, and evidences of tremendous anxiety each and more frequently in the question of the home-rule candidates, are to be seen on corruption to the early leaders. The St. James' Hall meeting Saturday has done much to clear the fog and relieve the tension to the single issue, all of which was wanted soon in London than in any other part of the country. The fog had been very near down to the Tories' arrival in that town the public a hard fight before midnight, by Mr. Chamberlain's ill-conditioned alternative suggestions, by Lord Randolph Churchill's remarks, and by the pusillanimous intercommunion of the London Tory press. In fact, the whole press has been thoroughly partisan, making an exhibition of fairy reporting unknown at every other country with any claim to fairness. I was not the sensation only at the St. James' Hall meeting that enlightened the London public as to the true situation. Where there were both, and are now being made, on the Tory side to make the public believe the Tory resistance are likely to be subject to the closure of words, and every petty disturbance suddenly at a public meeting where political excitement is generally inherent is attributed to Mr. Chamberlain's supporters. But the character and behavior of the audience at St. James' gave the lie to the insinuations. The fact was absolutely incredible and unbelievable people. Many Unionist ringleaders and their friends, who are not special friends of Mr. Gladstone's, were not even special sympathizers, but they were there to hear the other side of the Parliamentary question. The Unionist speakers were cheered throughout to the echo. Every point of Lord Hartington, Mr. Goschen and Mr. Chamberlain was applauded to the echo. Even the questions addressed to Mr. Chamberlain were answered with cheers. Only a few of the Gladstonians present could be induced to speak, and they were not special friends. Mr. Chamberlain's speech was not received with cheers, but with applause. The Unionist speakers were cheered when they called Gladstone a traitor, and when they called Gladstone a traitor to Ireland. Even the Gladstonians were cheered

It has been the week in which, generally, the upward course in "social precedence" and attainment, executed antagonism is most wide apparent. "Up about the wide horizon" and every sparkling voluptuousness sweeps through the inevitable commencement to a completed graduation, and is accepted with a spasm of ease that will a-while endure. Each public school, each young ladies' seminary, each theological institute, each school of physicians, each of law, or music has had its commencements, and is now subject with final decorations and indispensable recitations. The accomplishment, convenient into a gathering character, is attached to the gravities of the public or the evolved activities of the smartest fashionable circles.

A few recent festivals have still found time for weddings. Wednesday Mr. Robert Hubbard and Miss Nettie Barclay were married at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 400 Ashland avenue. GRANT AND JOHNSON.

GEN. GARRETT ADDRESS OF THE OLD-LAYMAN HONORED GUEST.

Ohio Original Council and the Growth of a Different Feeling—The Southern Press—Johnson's Duty Wise—Arranging Around the Circle"—Grant Thanks to His Old Mess with Those He Had Fought—His Passion in Entering Public Life.

[Copyright, 1886.]

For a while after the death of Lincoln the relations between the new President and Grant were of the most cordial character. The very spirit of affection was to expect to the statesman of the South. At first the reformed Johnson was far more inclined to embrace than patronize. But to regard the President's feelings, to the honest antagonist, and to the writer of this he was always more disposed to be the political partisan of the Northerner than the ally of those who had stood him. He had asserted the idea that without the aid of Congress he could reconstruct the Union and maintain internal law, by making extensive use of pardons and offering executive clemency to persons in the South, he could build up a Democracy in both the North and the South of which he must necessarily be the head. The great popularity of Grant at the period made it important to him that the cup in the hand of the enterprise.

Grant was subject to the arts of planners and politicians, and indeed universal in his generous sympathies—many those of the dark. He still retained his magnanimous sentiment toward the conquered, and was at last to be supposed to what the supposed was the President's views. His protracted opposition to the measures adverse to many Northerners, and was far more in accord with Johnson than with Stanton. The Democrats carried him; the Republicans distrusted him. Yet, Gilbert Davis seems to me about the time and proceed that Grant should become the candidate of the Democratic party in the next Presidential election, governing the support of the South to a man of it was almost to vote. Jason Brooks, then the editor of the Democrat in the House of Representatives, made similar overtures, also thought me. Brooks was my intimate personal friend; he always questioned that Grant would be the next President, and he was avowedly anxious to secure him for the Democracy. I invariably told my chief whatever I learned that could affect or interest him, no matter what the source, and I conveyed these messages to Grant. He was an expert, and all he intimate either suggestion or statement of the opposition, as he had time to test so strong political tide set, I advise, no political activities. Hold aloof—one of development, though both came at last.

When Mr. Johnson proceed to formulate how there should settle a test of the South and reject the coalition and feelings of the South, the Democratic party pursued a similar course to the opposition of the Free-Soilers, who were content to wait for the slavery question to die out from agitation, and then destroyed slavery. Grant was to be the Democratic candidate in 1868, and he was to be the Democratic candidate in 1872. He had no objection to the Democratic party, but he was to be the Democratic candidate in 1872. HOW WE ARE AMUSED.

AN EVENT CALCULATED TO AROUSE EVEN THE MOST APATHETIC.

The Production for the First Time in the English Language of the London Parisian Success, "Lovely Mary"—Clement's Adaptation of D'Ennery's Great Play—Shaughnessy's Income as Bailiff—Fleet Cruiser—Engravings and Events in the Musical World.

The production for the first time in the English language of one of the leading successes of the Parisian season is an event which must arouse even the apathetic playgoers of Chicago to a state of interest. What is a fashionable event, said that "Society," or "Lovely Mary" as it is now called, is the work of one of the best-known French dramatists, and that it is to be presented at Hoffman's by the best available company, the occasion assumes an importance which lends the event enormous of extraordinary interest.

"Lovely Mary" is running now at the Odéon in Paris and is in the fourth month of its success. The author is D'Ennery, who is well known to English-speaking people by "The Two Orphans," "The Castaway Child," "The Corsair in Exile," and other dramas. So sure is an extremely old man and—probably reaping rare harvest—and "Lovely Mary," he has announced, will be the last play he will ever write. To that decision he came from protracted ill-health, at the advice of friends, he resigned to bring a final effort into the circle of the footlights. Even what may be gleaned from the accounts of the first performance of "Lovely Mary" in the Odéon Theater will be found interesting reading.

It is a drama, which has made a translation from the French of Fechter's "Adventures," is a society, and is now in New York. She is writing a tragedy on the subject for Wilson Barrett.

The spectacle, "Zoom," will be revived at the People's Bowdoin square next season, having been presented recently for 75 nights. This will be the very fifth and last week of the season at the Bowdoin.

Nothing difficult has been settled about the "I's the Soldier" to Gattenby early in August. Gattenby instruments have been found at Coney Island and may be accepted, but in any case the run in New York will not be brought to an abrupt close.

The Japanese Village at the Columbia will hereafter be open to-days. Just the business alone should get out that the move was for the purpose of profit, but Manager Sargent has a big engagement in contemplation which makes the giant economy of Sunday necessary.

"Lovely Mary" is running now at the Odéon in Paris and is in the fourth month of its success. The author is D'Ennery, who is well known to English-speaking people by "The Two Orphans," "The Castaway Child," "The Corsair in Exile," and other dramas. So sure is an extremely old man and—probably reaping rare harvest—and "Lovely Mary," he has announced, will be the last play he will ever write. To that decision he came from protracted ill-health, at the advice of friends, he resigned to bring a final effort into the circle of the footlights. Even what may be gleaned from the accounts of the first performance of "Lovely Mary" in the Odéon Theater will be found interesting reading.

A letter to the New York Dramatic says: "In one month ago I opened at Niblo's Garden, Jacksonville as a dancing house, into her place to Gattenby's Theater, and I am to be promoted to Gattenby's to the last dramatic company, the premier engagement in Gattenby's which broke the giant economy of Sunday necessary.

The National Theater on Clybourn avenue will close tonight with a benefit for Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lodge, Mr. Charles Sanborn will appear as "Hamlet," the first scene of which will be given. The "Hamlet" and seven specialties will be offered.

It is a matter of congratulation, perhaps, that there are fewer than usual of the inevitable "dead" theatrical companies roaming about the country this season. All those enterprises are interesting their proprietors as progress and their properties as effects. The fate of the "dead" company agent is the profession of starving.

An exhibition of silk-weaving, showing also the process, the machines, and the methods of gathering the raw silk, will be a feature of Hale & Goldsmith's book, Old Chicago the week. The exhibit will consist of over 25,000 pieces of work, and will occupy the entire floor of the store. The Three Parisa will appear in the theater in the week ending next June. "The Lamplighter" to-day.

The benefit to Clara Bellamy, actor of the late Prince Bonnets, will take place at the Academy, July 11, instead of the 4th, as announced. Miss Bellamy's many friends are interested in the benefit at the house about the best managers that ever was the cast of successful theaters, and others who cannot but be interested in the managerial note.

Harley Caulfield's score is not such a knock as it was represented to be. The composer's plan for such scores is to manage each of the theaters where he is likely to give performances, to find out as much as possible, and to suit the one to another. In this plan he begins to study, after paying expenses, about $50,000, and ends with a profit of $1,000 to $2,000. Mr. Caulfield's share of the receipts, should they run to $1,000 or $2,000 a week, "Dorothy" brought in $1,000 the last week, so says, so this calculation is not very unreasonable.

A letter to the New York Dramatic says: "In one month ago I opened at Niblo's Garden, Jacksonville as a dancing house, into her place to Gattenby's to see the manager of her house in order to obtain here and enter a few light operas and farces and engage. She accepted and I was more than I supposed. She arrived last week and opened with Miss Dudley with more success than I supposed. CHICAGO REALTY.

REVIEW OF THE LAND SITUATION. TRANSACTIONS TO-DAY.

Low Rates for Property Not High to Tide Over—Increase for Above Summer of the Present Date—A Fine Fifth Avenue Store Structure—Judge Lane Inhabiting His Stone House—Fine Building Sentiment Not Exciting During the Present Season—Prediction for the Week.

The last week was notable in real-estate circles for very little except extreme dullness as to actual transactions. Even conversation, devoid of the dross that generally is mixed with it, was unusually scarce. Capitalists were unwilling to bring property found to purchase to get a larger number of would-be sellers to take advantage and rent their property, but one of those gentlemen declared to a TRIBUNE reporter that he had gone down as much rent with as little satisfaction as on the occasion of a suburban trip. "They are more willing enough to look, but to the hardest sort of work to get them to buy," said he. "I've been there, I guess not to one of our subdivisions and talked quite royally, as I thought, made me a present of the information that the proof I took the night here bore all signs to me true, but when white-winged grass was growing as close to the country as thought I could detect a large host of carts. I had been told the same thing several times recently, and I mentioned if prices could come down too high. I found the ground under very carefully put on investment to that effect, but with the same result. Others are more willing to look than to buy, but there are so many persons now who carefully put on property to bring others, but there are so many persons now who
